

Change-makers Invitation Template - offered as a way to introduce United Earth to leading-figures who inspire you. Please copy and paste the following text into your email.

To People at the Cutting-Edge of Positive Change,

We wish to inform you about a planetary initiative that intends to help bring your work to the forefront of public awareness. It's called United Earth and it's a global platform for all people and groups dreaming and working for a better world, to unite and collaborate towards a whole-systems transformation of human society.

As you know, there are currently hundreds of millions of people and hundreds of thousands of organisations the world over who are all, in their own ways, working for the same thing: a healthy, free, peaceful, diverse and abundant world for everyone. Through our universal connection to the Internet we have a powerful opportunity to begin working together at the global level to co-create the world we all know is possible.

United Earth is being co-created by concerned individuals, change-makers and international organisations to provide an open, public and equality-based platform for all people and organisations to showcase their solutions and innovations, and to add their voice to our collective intention:

To recognise and promote all our common values and aspirations; our ecological solutions and social innovations; our alternative political and economic models; and to harness our collective intelligence, and our willingness and capacity to work together to co-create this biggest intentional unification and conscious collaboration in human history.

Having clearly demonstrated your wisdom, commitment and service towards creating a more beautiful world, we wish to invite your participation in this emerging planetary co-creation. While we warmly welcome your active engagement in supporting or co-creating this unprecedented endeavour, any form of participation or contribution is welcome and appreciated.

Please visit the United Earth website (<https://united-earth.vision/en>) to find out more and become a part of our world-wide collaboration. The platform is just getting started and we are already gathering and co-creating new paradigm tools, innovative methods and strategies for our global transition.

We hope you will feel inspired to share our website throughout your extensive sphere of influence. As a "public figure" your support can significantly extend the invitation for global unity and cooperation.

The change we seek is in our hands - when we join them together!

In unity and collaboration,

The United Earth pioneering team
